Applicant's amendment dated August 20, 2004, has been fully considered.

Applicant has argued that Acheson et al does not disclose the concept of removing oil shale from the oil shale deposits. The Examiner disagrees. On column 1, lines 5-21, Acheson et al discloses that the subsurface formation 10 containing crude oil (oil shale), said oil shale is removed and directed upward and out of the production well 12. That is clearly equivalent with the step of removing oil shale deposit because there must be oil shale deposit on the subsurface 10 or else there is no oil shale to be removed.

For the reasons set forth above, the previous Office Action has been made final.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-7, 19-21, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. 4472935 (Acheson et al).

Acheson et al discloses a power plant using oil shale comprising a combustor 38, 34, 46, for combusting oil shale, an auxiliary fuel source 55 for supplying fuel into the combustor, the output is used to drive a steam turbine power plant 88. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-10, 22-23, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. 4472935 (Acheson et al) in view of U.S. 4193259 (Muenger et al). Acheson discloses all the claimed subject matter as set forth above in the rejection of claim 1, but does not disclose the heat input using solar refractor. Muenger is relied upon to disclose it's well known to use solar refractor for heating the working fluid. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to use solar refractor as the heat input for preheating the fluid in Acheson et al as taught by Muenger et al for the purpose of saving energy by using solar energy.

Claims 11-18, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. 4472935 (Acheson et al). Acheson discloses all the claimed subject matter as set forth above in the rejection of claim 1, but does not disclose different types of fuels and heat input for the preheater. However, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to use different types of fuels, and to use the exhaust for preheaters in Acheson et al for the purpose of achieving appropriate work output based on different types of fuel characteristics.

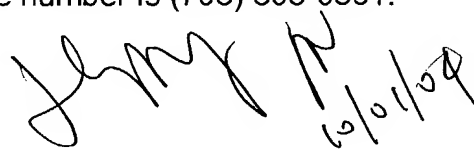

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
